National Grandparents Day

In 1978, President Jimmy Carter signed a proclamation declaring the first Sunday after Labor Day to be National Grandparents Day. The proclamation's preamble states that National Grandparents Day will serve "...to honor grandparents, to give grandparents an opportunity to show love for their children's children, and to help children become aware of strength, information and guidance older people can offer."

The creation of this holiday was largely the result of the efforts of Marian McQuade, who worked throughout her life to serve seniors. She sought to teach young people of the valuable wisdom and experience older people can share with them, and she encouraged them to "adopt a grandparent" as well.

This year, National Grandparents Day falls on September 13th. How will you commemorate it? Make it a point to spend some time with your grandparents on this day. Happy Grandparents Day!

Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur

Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are among the most important holy days in the Jewish religion. In the year 2010, Rosh Hashanah occurs from sundown on September 8th to sundown on September 10th. Ten days later, Yom Kippur begins at sundown on September 17th and lasts until sundown on September 18th.

Rosh Hashanah also marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year. Traditionally, the shofar, which is an instrument made from a ram's horn, is blown. Other traditions include praying near a river or stream and symbolically "casting away" one's sins by throwing bread crumbs or pebbles into the water. At mealtime, apples and honey serve to symbolize a "sweet" new year.

The ten days that span Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are known as the Ten Days of Repentance, or the Days of Awe. It is traditionally believed that a person's fate for the coming year is determined on Rosh Hashanah, but that fate is not sealed until Yom Kippur. So, the time in between is spent asking for forgiveness from those one has wronged and repenting for one's sins. When Yom Kippur arrives, the day is marked by fasting, wearing white to symbolize purity and spending the day in synagogue in prayer.

Activities R Us

September is here. Kids are back in school and we are back again in action for the Jewish holidays and National Assisted Living Week. On September 10th we will be having a Rosh Hashanah service and luncheon, and the following week we will be having a Yom Kippur service as well. In addition, we will be celebrating National Assisted Living Week, September 12th to 18th. Grandparents Day is on the 12th. We will be having Angie entertaining us, singing Broadway songs. The theme is "Living Life." Our additional activities include a BBQ and marching band from one of our local schools. In addition, we will be having an art festival and history games.
